POETICAL.

THE THREE SISTERS.

An Allegory.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

Madame VIRTUE and Miss GENIUS,
With their sister, REPUTATION,
Traveled once through foreign countries,
On a tour of observation.

Ere they started, GENIUS hinted
That by some unlucky blunder
While they journeyed thro' the kingdoms,
They might chance to get assunder;

"And," she said "it seem but prudent,
Should we break our pleasant tether,
Some device should be suggested
That may bring the three together.

As for me—if from my sisters
I should chance to prove a roamer,
Seek me at the tomb of Virgil,
Or before the shrine of Homer."

VIRTUE said, "If I am missing,
And you deem me worth the trouble,
Seek me in the courts of monarchs,
Or the dwelling of the noble.

If among the high and mighty
You should fail to find me present,
You may meet with better fortune
In the cottage of the peasant!"

"Ah!" said REPUTATION, sighing,
"It is easy of discerning
Each of you may freely wander
With a prospect of returning!

But, I pray you, guard me closely,
For, despite your best endeavor,
If you miss me for a moment,
I am lost—and lost forever!"

Miscellaneous.

GOTFRIED KINKEL.

SOMETHING OF HIS HISTORY—HOW CARL SHURZ RESCUED HIM FROM AN AUSTRIAN PRISON.

The illustrious German poet, philosopher and patriot, Gotfried Kinkel, says the Paris correspondence of the New York Times, has come to Paris for the purpose of delivering before his numerous country men, residing in the French capital, a series of artistic lectures on the Galleries of the Louvre.

I remember very well the excitement created last May, among the usually phlegmatic sons of Teutonia, by a visit of Kinkel during the German gymnastic festival, when he delivered before them, an impromptu address, which was greatly praised at the time by the Paris liberal press. In the literature of Germany Kinkle occupies a high position as a poet and a historian. When the Revolution of 1848 broke out, he was a professor at the University of Bonn and his strong democratic opinions induced him to take a prominent part in the struggle. He fought, was made prisoner by the royal authorities, was tried for treason, was sentenced to many years imprisonment at hard labor.

Among Kinkel's companions at this time was a young student not yet twenty years of age, named Carl Shurz, who was also captured, tried by court-martial, and sentenced to be shot. Shurz, however, more fortunate than his Professor, succeeded in escaping across the French frontier and was safe. Kinkle was sent to a common prison, placed among criminals of the vilest sort, and set to work making shoes. Young Germany, still trembling with the excitements of the recent Revolution, learned with indignation the treatment inflicted upon the eminent poet and scholar, and numerous petitions were sent to the Prussian Government, praying that his situation might be ameliorated. To all this the authorities paid no attention whatever, the protestations ceased, and Kinkel seemed likely to be abandoned by his friends. There was one, however, who did not desert him. Carl Shurz left Paris, disguised himself in rags, and, defying the hatred re-entered Prussia, with an organ on his back. In the day, he begged his bread on the high road; at night, he laid aside his organ, and visited the abodes of his former companions and the friends of German liberty, to endeavor to re-awaken their interest in the fate of the imprisoned patriot. In this way he traveled three hundred leagues on foot, playing the organ through many towns and villages, carefully maturing his plans, and sleeping in barns or under hedges. On one occasion he was stopped by two Prussian gendarmes, who inquired where he was going.

"To the neighboring town," replied Shurz.

"Would you like to earn a handful of pennies?" asked the others.

"Certainly."

"Very well; come with us to our barracks. We intend to give a dance this evening, and the airs of your organ will suit our purpose exactly."

It was impossible to decline the offer of the soldiers without exciting suspicion; so Shurz accepted, with a great show of gratitude, and during the whole night ground out waltzes and quadrilles for a batallion of gendarmes. Leaving undiscovered the dangerous society of the military police, young Shurz continued his journey, and in short time subsequently, information reached him that Kinkel's prison had been changed. He was now incarcerated at Spandau, and placed under the personal supervision of the prison director.

Late one night, when the streets had become deserted, a post chaise, escorted by a guard of four dragoons, drove rapidly through the town of Spandau, and halted before the prison. An officer, in the uniform of a Colonel of the Royal Guard, alighted from the vehicle, and was soon in the presence of the Director, into whose hands he placed a letter from the Minister of the Interior of Berlin, and bearing the official seal. Receiving the packet with the respect due to a communication from the Minister, the Director opened the important missive and read as follows:

"A deep laid plot has been organized at Berlin, the object of which is to effect the forcible release of the convict Kinkel from the hands of the authorities. We are now watching the movements of the conspirators, and are preparing to arrest them. In order, however, to prevent the possibility of a surprise, the bearer of the present letter, Col ——, is commanded to take charge of your prisoner, whom he will immediately conduct to the citadel of Magdeburg, and place him in the hands of the Governor of that fortress."

Upon reading this ministerial injunction, the director of the Spandau prison at once had the unfortunate Kinkle awakened, caused him to be securely ironed and placed in the post chaise, which set off on the road to Magdeburg, accompanied by the Colonel and four dragoons, who rode with drawn sabres. All night long they traveled at rapid speed; fresh horses were instantly furnished at each relay, the Colonel's demand being accompanied by the magical expression, "the King's service." The unhappy prisoner, crouched in a corner of the vehicle, cared not what might be his fate—Germany had forgotten him, and nothing could be worse than the noisome dungeon at Spandau. Morning came at last, a gray winter's dawn, and the carriage stopped. The Colonel himself opened the door, and bade the prisoner alight. Without a word poor Kinkel obeyed, and found himself standing on the sea shore, a boat awaiting a few feet from the spot where he stood, and a ship, with the English flag at her mast-head lying to within sight. The prisoner uttered a cry of mingled hope and despair.

"Do you not know me, my dear old master?" sobbed the pseudo Colonel, tearing off his false mustache, and clasping Kinkel in his arms. "I am your friend and pupil, Carl Shurz.—Let us embrace each other once more in German soil, and then, away for England!"

Kinkel could not reply, but burst into tears. In a few moments more they were in the boat, and rowing lustily toward the vessel in the offing, which had now hoisted the German Republican flag, in token of recognition and welcome. As they reached the ship's side, Kinkel, pale and trembling, leaned upon Shurz's shoulder, and murmured: "My wife; my children—where are they?"

He had time to say no more, for, in another moment Mme. Kinkel was in her husband's arms, and his children were clinging about his knees.

"My mission is accomplished," said young Shurz, "I had sworn, dear master, to restore you to liberty and to your family. My duty is done."

Upon their arrival in London, the patriots were received with transports of enthusiasm. The rich German residents of the British metropolis took upon themselves to provide for the brave young fellows who, in the disguise of Prussian dragoons, had aided Shurz in successfully carrying out his noble project, and Prof. Kinkel himself commenced giving lectures on German literature, which met with immense success. Carl Shurz soon afterward parted from his old preceptor, and set out to seek his fortune in the promised land across the broad Atlantic. His career in the United States is well known. He had left in Germany an aged father, who longed to see again his favorite son; but it is not easy for a man to visit a country where certain death awaits him if detected. Still fortune smiled on Shurz. Risen high in favor with President Lincoln, the German-American General was appointed Envoy Extraordinary to the Court of Madrid, and fifteen years after his flight with Kinkle, he quietly re-visited his birth-place. No Prussian gendarme dared to lay a finger upon the condemned felon, now a diplomatic representative of one of the most powerful nations on the globe.

THE SECRET.—"I noticed," said Franklin, 'a mechanic, among a number of others at work on a house erecting but a little way from my office, who always appeared to be in a merry humor, who had a kind word and a cheerful smile for every one he met. Let the day be ever so cold, gloomy or sunless, a happy smile danced like a sunbeam on his cheerful countenance. Meeting him one morning, I asked him to tell me the secret of his constant happy flow of spirits. 'A secret, doctor,' he replied, 'I have got one of the best of wives, and when I go to work, she always has a kind word of encouragement for me, and when I go home she meets me with a smile and a kiss, and then tea is sure to be ready, and she has done so many little things through the day to please me that I cannot find it in my heart to speak an unkind word to anybody.'

THE FIEND PROBST.

In the Criminal Court of Philadelphia, on Tuesday, 1st inst. the motion of counsel for a new trial of Antoine Probst, convicted of the massacre of the Deering family, was refused, and District Attorney Mann asked for the judgment of the Court. Judge Allison directed the clerk to direct the prisoner to stand up and inquire if he had anything to say why sentence of death should not be pronounced. The interpreter standing by the dock informed Probst of the order. The prisoner shook his head in the negative in reply to the inquiry whether he had anything to say. Judge Allison then proceeded to pass sentence.

Antoine Probst—You stand at the bar of this Court, convicted of murder of the first degree. A jury of your own selection pronounced you, after a patient trial, guilty of a crime, the punishment of which is death.

Without cause and with malice premeditated, you took the life of Christopher Deering. This, the verdict, recorded against you, establishes as a fact, judicially ascertained, after a solemn and impartial trial, in which your every right was most carefully guarded. No one of the forms, which the law has declared to be of the substance of such a trial, in the jealous watch and care which it keeps over the life of the citizen and the alien alike, has been neglected in your case. A stranger in a strange land; alone but not friendless, for the law itself became your friend; provided you with able and conscientious counsel; shielded you from popular violence; watched over and guarded your life with sleepless vigilance; and by the direct interposition of its might and its power, obtained for you a trial, according to the forms of the Constitution. All this was secured to you by none other but by legal evidence, not in the least degree by your own confession, but by evidence from which there was no escape, most conclusive in its character, you have been found guilty of the commission of one of the most appalling crimes of which the records of civilized jurisprudence make any mention.

A felony of murder unparalleled; your heart conceived and your hands executed; in plan most comprehensive; in minuteness of detail, unequaled; in execution, relentless, brutal, savage beyond precedent.

A husband and a father, returning to his home, in all the strength and glory of his manhood, a wife and mother, coming for the little, loved ones, whom God had given to her—toiling at her domestic altar—her humble fireside; a companion of your daily labor, who with you shared your bed; who, almost slept in your arms; at peace with you; the very breath of whose life you breathed; your fourth victim, an inoffensive visitor, whose sex would have not in vain appealed to your compassion, if compassion you possess, had you but thought of the mother who gave you birth. And four helpless children of these slaughtered parents; four little ones, who had never done you harm; of three of these, in innocent and happy childhood, you had been the daily witness; listened to their young and merry voices, and perhaps have had them play in confidence and trust about you; and the fourth a smiling, gentle, tender babe, who had not yet learned to lisp your name, or to know you as a stranger in that household, whose tiny, bloody garments, brought here by other hands, bore testimony most crushing against the monster, in the shape of man, who cut and hacked its young life away.

Of all who gathered beneath the humble roof of Christopher Deering, but one remains, a little, lonely, solitary boy, saved not by your mercy, for mercy you had none, but by an interposing Providence, protected from your murderous arm, and uplifted axe, with which you sought to kill them all.

All this you performed alone, or aided by another, it matters not which, so far as the legal and moral guilt of all these murders committed by you is concerned, and much more that human eye hath not seen, you did, with malice inconceivable.

Almost without motive you went at your work self-imposed, and eight innocent victims you slew; not suddenly, not in a temper of resistless passion, but in the coolness of a premeditated design—one by one, at intervals, with solemn pause, with calm deliberation, and with a quenchless thirst for blood, you ceased not until all that you set out to do was fully ended, and you found yourself alone with the dead. Your triumph was then complete.

This is a poor picture of your work, and of this I here remind you, that you may even now, at this dread hour for you, realize if it indeed be possible for you to do so, the enormity of your deeds of blood, and before God seek for pardon for your crime.

No one may limit His power to forgive, but you can find mercy only in redeeming love. Man cannot, will not, dare not, pass by unavenged, a crime so fearful, as to be almost nameless. Society demands protection and violated law its vindication. But the Omnipotent God hath said, "Whosoever will, let him come." To his mercy I commend you.

But what you have to do, do speedily; for the night of death casts its shadows already around you. The avenger of blood has followed steadily after you, and in the darkness of the night, the invisible finger of the Almighty pointed you out to your pursuers, and justice now claims you as its own. And that which is requires to be done shall not long be delayed. You had your success in the execution of your fell purpose. But it demands its triumph now, in the detection, exposure, conviction, and promptest and severest punishment of the criminal, who has defied alike the laws of God and of man, and outraged all the nobler sympathies of his nature.

It only remains for me to pass on you the judgment of the law, which is, that——[Here the long Judges arose, and amid breathless silence concluded the sentence]—Antoine Probst, the prisoner at the bar, be taken from hence, to the jail of the County of Philadelphia, from whence he came, and thence to the place of execution, and that he there be hanged by the neck until he is dead, and may God have mercy on his soul!

During the time the awful recital of the crimes committed by Probst was falling from the lips of Judge Allison, and when the terrible words of doom that consigned the murderer to the gallows and demanded blood for blood were being uttered, the prisoner stood in the dock as impassive as a statue. At no point did he evince a disposition to give way to any feeling of emotion, and he resumed his seat with as much apparent indifference as though he had merely been sentenced to do penance in the county prison for wringing the necks of a few of the inmates of some farmer's chicken-coop.

NOTABILITIES IN CONGRESS.—A correspondent of a western paper describes Mr. Baldwin, of Worcester, Mass. District, as the the largest man in Congress, physically, and distinguished some of the others thus:

"The wealthiest man is Oakes Ames, of Massachusetts, the largest spade and shovel manufacturer in the world. The most extensive boot and shoe manufacturer, is J. B Alley, of Massachusetts. The heaviest pork packer is Benjamin Eggleston, of Ohio.—The most extensive iron manufacturer is J. A. Griswold, of New York.—The richest banker is Samuel Hooper, of Massachusetts. The best orator, on the Democratic side, is the exit member, D. W. Voorhees, of Indiana. The best speaker on the Union side, for the galleries, is W. D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania. The most effective speaker for the House——Schuyler Colfax, well, of Massachusetts.—The readiest and most finished off hand speaker is the Speaker, Hon. Schuyler Colfax. The best voice for declamation is that of N. P. Banks of Massachusetts.—The best cultivated head—of hair—is that of Andrew Jackson Rogers, of New Jersey, the leader of the Democratic party."

HOW TO SAVE YOUR TEETH.—Mr. Beecher, who is something of a physician, as well as a theologist, author, lecturer, and reformer generally, says:

"Our teeth decay. Hence, bad breath, unseemly mouth, and imperfect mastication. Every body regrets it. What is the cause? It is a want of cleanliness. A clean tooth never decays. The mouth is a warm place—ninety-eight degrees. Particles of meat between the teeth decompose.—Gums and teeth must suffer. Cleanliness will preserve the teeth to old age. Use a quill pick and rinse the mouth after eating; brush with castile soap every morning; brush with pure water on retiring. Bestow this trifling care on your precious teeth, you will keep them and ruin the dentists. Neglect it and you will be in sorrow all your lives.

Children forget. Watch them.—The first teeth determine the character of the second set. Give them equal care.

Sugar, acids, hot drinks, salaratus, are nothing compared with food decomposed between the teeth. Mercury may loosen the teeth, use may wear them out, but keep them clean and they will never decay. This advice is worth more than thousands of dollars to every boy and girl. Books have been written on the subject. This brief article contains all that is essential.

DEPEND ON YOURSELF.—Most young men consider it a great misfortune to be born poor, or not have capital enough to establish themselves at their outset in life, in a good business. This is a mistaken notion. So far as poverty being a misfortune to them, if we may judge from what we every day behold, it is really a blessing; the chance is more than ten to one against him who starts with plenty of money. Let any one look back twenty years and see who began business at that time with abundant means, and trace them down to the present day.—How many of them now boast of worth and standing? On the contrary, how many have become poor, lost their places in society, and are passed by their own boon companions with a look which plainly says, "I know you not!"

SOMEBODY says that Esq.' to the end of a man's name, in many instances, is like the 'quirk' in a pig's tail—more for an ornament than for any practical use.

A Tennessee Congressman on Reconstruction.

Colonel Stokes, a loyal Tennesseean, who raised and commanded A regiment which did good service in the Union army, and who is one of the members of Congress elected by his State, defends the action of that body on reconstruction, as will be seen by the following extract from a speech recently delivered by him:

"But it is said a radical Congress will not admit Union men of the South. I am one of those men, and an applicant for a seat in Congress. I believe when the proper time comes Congress will do its duty in regard to Tennessee and any other State that takes the same position. Why is it not done now? We have had a war for four or five years. You cannot expect Congress to heal all these differences in a few days. It was their duty to examine the condition of the government of those States, to examine their constitutions and laws, and when their loyal government is properly established to recognize it, and then one point is settled. After that comes the question as to the qualification of members. Congress had a right to prescribe the test oath, and I say here that I would sit in my seat until I froze to death before I would ever vote to repeal that oath until the Southern people and their papers show a different tone towards the Union men of the South. Now the President has said himself that Congress must declare the State government properly established before it can become valid. Why, then, are these States not admitted? I will tell you. Congress asked for evidence as to these States. It asked for the proclamations, constitutions, documents, laws. The President never sent them to Congress until March.—But meanwhile it had been gathering proofs from other quarters, and at length it was just ready to admit Tennessee. Then one branch of the Legislature was disorganized, and the rebel element not being willing to submit to the rule of the majority, sought to break up and destroy the government. They left the House without a quorum and it is still without a quorum. And I say that while the government was in that condition, there is not a man of you who would think that State should be recognized. We therefore do not complain of the delay. We know that admission now would destroy the Union element of those States. Congress is doing right in holding back. When the rebel armies a disposition toward loyalty, but I stand here to night to say that there is now a feeling as deep and bitter toward the Union men of the South, as there ever was in 1860 or 1861.—And the facts have proved that Congress, in its cool and deliberate treatment of the matter, deserves the thanks of all Union men in giving opportunity for these rebels to show their hands. Time will show that Congress was right. But all these things will be settled wisely and safely, and when loyal men get control of these governments, there will then be no difficulty, and all these questions will be satisfactorily settled. In Tennessee we shall elect new members to make a quorum, then the franchise bill, securing control to loyal men will pass; and then I have no doubt that Congress will act promptly and rightly."

HOW MR. LINCOLN SIGNED THE PROCLAMATION.—The Rochester Express relates the following as the circumstances attending Mr. Lincoln's signature to the Emancipation Proclamation, and says it has not before been published. The large roll containing that document was taken to Mr. Lincoln at noon on the first day of January, 1863, by Secretary Seward and his son Frederick. As it lay unrolled before him, he took a pen, dipped it in ink, moved his hand to the place for signature, held it a moment and then removed his hand and dropped the pen. After a little hesitation he again took up the pen and went through the same movement as before. Mr. Lincoln turned to Mr. Seward and said: "I have been shaking hands since nine o'clock this morning and my right arm is almost paralyzed. If my name ever goes into history it will be for this act, and my whole soul is in it. If my hand trembles when I sign the proclamation, all who examine the document hereafter will say 'he hesitated.'"—He then turned to the table, took up the pen again, and slowly wrote that "ABRAHAM LINCOLN" with which the whole world is now familiar. He looked up, smiled and said: "That will do." That proclamation asserted that the "Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authorities thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of such persons."

AN English Farmer recently remarked that "he fed his land before it was hungry, rested it before it was weary, and weeded it before it was foul." Seldom, if ever, was so much agricultural wisdom condensed in a single sentence.

THE entire assets of a recent bankrupt were nine children. The creditors acted magnanimously, and let him keep them.

What Heister Clymer Declared and Did While He Occupied a Seat in the State Senate.

He insisted that secession was not treason.

He declared that coercion of armed rebellion was unconstitutional.

He styled Union soldiers "hounds," "bull dogs," "hirelings," "minions," "incendiaries" and "plunderers."

He predicted and encouraged a fire in the rear of Union soldiers.

He proclaimed, by implication, that Jeff. Davis was a purer patriot than Abraham Lincoln.

He discouraged the raising of armies by conscription.

He opposed and execrated every measure by which the Union was saved.

He characterized Abraham Lincoln as a "tyrant," "usurper," "buffoon" and "assassin."

He ridiculed Andrew Johnson as a "recreant," "spoil-hunter," "inebriate" and "adventurer."

He opposed the extension of the elective franchise to the men in the field periling their lives in defence of the Union, and when they did vote, he charged that such use of the ballot was illegal and a fraud.

He opposed the disfranchisement of deserters and struggled with all his legal forces to prevent the punishment of bounty jumpers.

He could see nothing heinous in the murder of a draft officer or the pilfering of an enrollment office.

He declared the war a failure, and insisted that it ought to cease, while he advocated the election to the Presidency of a played out military bombast.

He rejoiced over rebel and mourned at Union victory.

He opposed the establishment of a National currency.

He insisted on Pennsylvania paying her English creditors in gold, when by all the rules of financial business the State could only be asked to pay in currency. The payment in gold cost the Commonwealth many thousands of dollars, which went at the time to fill the pockets of Englishmen who were then engaged in affording aid and comfort to the rebels fighting for the destruction of the Government.

These are a few of the distinguished acts performed by Heister Clymer while he was a State Senator. He is now a candidate for Governor, and was nominated by his party because of his record above given. Will the people of Pennsylvania endorse a candidate coming before them with a record like this? The result of the election in October will be the answer.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

THE BRAVE GENERAL ON HIS KNEES.—It is just cause for lamentation that such cases as the following should be so rare as to seem wonderful:—

The most loving tenderness may blend with the loftiest courage. The recent scenes of our own camps and hospitals attest this amply. "Surgeons," said one of our generals, after the battle of Gettysburg, "I give my friend, Captain ——, into your especial care. I would I were wounded instead of him."

And this captain, who lay there suffering, said to the surgeon, "When I was brought in here wounded, before our noble general mounted his horse for the pursuit, he came here, he put his arm around me, read those blessed verses, 'Let not your heart be troubled,' &c., and, kneeling down, offered a brief prayer for my recovery."

And this was the man whose fighting at Cemetery Hill, the first day, before Meade came up, saved the day for us! Howard is his name!

THE Westboro' correspondent of the Worcester Spy writes: "An old lady, Mrs. Ruggles, is now living in this town, at the venerable age of ninety-three years, with faculties yet undimmed, who, while a teacher in Cambridge, numbered among her pupils a fair-haired boy named Robert E. Lee, afterwards known to infamy as the commander-in-chief of the rebel army."

Perhaps a more vigorous application of the birch in his boyhood's days would have saved him the necessity of the terrible drubbing given at a later period by schoolmaster U. S. Grant.

THE Mobile Register places at the head of its columns the name of General Robert E. Lee as candidate for President of the United States in 1868, and remarks that there is a concerted organization now in progress to put forward "the model hero of the Confederacy" as the State Rights Democratic candidate in the next Presidential campaign.

A BABY convention was held at Muscatine, Iowa, recently. Fifteen mothers with their little ones, were present and voted on the question of the prettiest. Each baby got one vote and no more. Every mother voted for her own offspring.

A SCOTCHMAN, putting up at an inn, was asked in the morning how he slept. "Troth, man," he replied, "nae vera weel, either; but I was muckle better aff than the bugs, for deil ane o' them blinked ane'e the hale night."

IT is stated that the Mormons in Utah are rebellious. They have recently assassinated eight Gentiles, and have posted up placards warning all Gentiles to leave the Territory.

Farm, House, &c.

SHALL WE PLOW IN OUR MANURE OR LEAVE IT ON THE SURFACE?—You get the full benefit of manure when you plow it under; there can be no mistake about that. But you do not get it at once. The manure will, in its fermentation and otherwise, act upon the soil, and absorb its decomposed properties. But as roots occupy but part of the soil yearly, so but part of the strength of the manure—that part coming in contact with the roots—will be taken up. Hence it takes years—at least several crops—to get the full benefit of manure plowed under.

For immediate effect—for a single year's benefit—surface application is the thing; but some of the strength is apt to depart to other lands. It is this immediate effect which has led many into the notion that surface is preferable, and that little or no strength escapes. It has to be applied very closely and fine, and thoroughly rotten, if the strength is all to go in the ground.

For meadows, even top dressing with manure is good only for a year or slightly for more, depending somewhat upon the quantity applied and the nature of the soil. When plowed in, the good effects will be seen upon the grass for years—and the aggregate effect will be greater than when applied to the surface.—Close observations upon experiments seems to have established this.

Into the ground then, with your rough manure, and let it ferment and benefit the soil—first, the grain crop, then the grass. You derive more benefit, because you derive it all. Of course, where grass is failing, top dressing alone can be resorted to.—Then repeated coats as the fall arrive (for autumn is the best time to apply) is advisable. When timothy or the shallow-rooting grasses are grown, manure may be thoroughly worked in the surface by cultivator and harrow, after grain, with equal if not superior effect to plowing in.

USEFULNESS OF THE OWL.—We trust that no farmers will allow the owl to be destroyed. The seldom do any damage, while they are of great service in protecting his premises against the depredations of mice and nocturnal insects. The Western Rural refers to this bird to the following terms:

"The food of owls consists almost entirely of rats, mice and field mice. Many of the smaller species destroy multitudes of nocturnal insects, and comparatively [illegible]. Those that are most diurnal in habits, partake somewhat of the nature of the hawks, and kill birds, which they pursue and capture while on the wing. But the little injury done by these is but trifling when compared with the benefits they are constantly doing by destroying the noxious animals which, as we have already said, constitute the greater portion of their food.

"We all know that mice do infinite mischief during the winter season in girdling trees, hedges, etc., and numerous inventions and appliances have been recommended for the protection of trees against their ravages, nearly all of which are found to be impracticable. A writer in a recent number of the Canada Farmer states that a gentleman who had several hundred pear trees, just coming into bearing, had them nearly all destroyed by mice. Now, should not the owl, which assists the farmer in his labors by destroying animals which are destructive to his interests, be protected and regarded as a friend?"

DIGGING WELLS.—At a recent meeting of the American Institute Farmers' Club, a member related his experience in this matter as follows: An Irishman in his employment, in order to ascertain where he ought to dig to obtain water soonest, got a stone and buried it over night in the ground, next to the hardpan. In the morning he found it quite moist, but not sufficiently so to hurt his fancy. Next night he tried it in another spot, and it was found very wet on the following morning. "There," said Patrick, "you will find water not many feet, and plenty of it." Sure enough, in a few days' digging, Patrick confirmed his prediction, notwithstanding the jeers of the workmen—finding a vein which filled the well to overflowing, and rendered it exceedingly difficult to bail out the water so as to stone it.—The philosophy of the operation seems to be that as great evaporation takes place from the surface of the earth during the night, the water rises up from the depth below to supply the loss, and accumulates in the vicinity of the stone, often making quite a puddle.

FACTS WORTH REMEMBERING.—It is worth while for all farmers, every where, to remember that thorough culture is better than three mortgages on their farm.

That an offensive war against weeds is five times less expensive than a defensive one.

That good fences pay better than lawsuits with neighbors.

That hay is a great deal cheaper made in summer that purchased in winter.

That more stock perish from famine than founder.

The scrimping the feed of fattening hogs is a waste of grain.

That over-fed fowls won't lay eggs.

MAY 9th, 1866.

FOR GOVERNOR,

GEN. JOHN W. GEARY,

OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

We announced last week the name of Hon. George V. Lawrence, of Washington county, as a candidate for Congress. It has been usual in this State for each county to make a nomination, and then appoint conferees to select a candidate from those presented for the District. We recommend that in this instance the custom be departed from and the nomination be conceded to our present worthy representative. There is no necessity for the formality of a District Conference. In this county there is no opposition to Mr. Lawrence, and our citizens all expect and desire that he should be the nominee. He has represented the District well, and is entitled to a re nomination, and to a full expression of confidence. In view of the fact that he is now in Washington attending closely to his official duties, and cannot leave to look after his political interests, we believe it the duty of the Union men of the District to generously relieve him of all anxiety about this matter. In behalf of Beaver county we say to him and to our sister counties that we prefer he should remain where he is, in the discharge of his duties, and that the Union men of this county will see to it that, so far as they are concerned, he shall not suffer in consequence. If nominated he is certain of re-election, and this is no time to run risks. We are satisfied no man in the District can poll a larger vote than Mr. Lawrence, and we are equally as well satisfied that we have no man who could and would represent us more ably or faithfully. We have only to say to our worthy representative that he need give himself no uneasiness about this county, we think. He will receive the nomination at our Convention, and we will place his name on the ticket and contribute so far as we can to secure his election. We are assured the other counties composing the District will do the same. Hon. George V. Lawrence is the choice of the Union voters for Congress, and he will be triumphantly elected

At the instance of Hon. Roscoe Conkling, of New York State, Congress last week appointed a committee to investigate frauds in the Provost Mar. Gen. Fry was called to account, or at least required to satisfy the people of the United States that there was not great incompetency and corruption in the management in the office of which he has control. Gen. Fry rendered himself ridiculous and odious to the country, by his mathematical computation and his innumerable orders of and concerning the draft and the quotas of the States and districts. We certainly think the hundreds of millions of dollars expended in his department on deserters, bounty jumpers, &c., might have been saved by honest and judicious management.—No department of the Government, or all combined, evinced so much apparent inefficiency, or brought so much disgrace upon the country. We are glad an investigation has been ordered. Fry's effort to prevent it only arouses our suspicions.

Congress has passed the bill for the admission of Colorado as a State, and it is now in the hands of the President for his signature. It is thought he will veto it, on the ground that Colorado has not the number of inhabitants required. An effort was made by the radicals in Congress to have the word white stricken out of the Constitution, which failed, only receiving thirty-six votes in the House.

Col. Jordan, Chairman of the Union State Central Committee, has issued a call for a meeting of said Committee to be held at the National Union Club, No. 1105 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, on Wedesday, May 16th, at 3 o'clock, p. m. The attendance of every member of the Committee is earnestly solicited.

Gen. Hawley was inaugurated Governor of Connecticut, on the 2d inst., at New Haven. In his message to the Senate and House, he proposes that the question of universal suffrage in the State be again submitted to the electors.

The Washington County Union Convention will be held on the 29th of May. In Indiana county the Union men hold their Convention on the 4th of June, and in Butler county the Union Convention will be held on the 11th of June.

Gov. Hamilton, of Texas, has issued a proclamation for a State election under the new constitution, on the 5th of June.

County Convention.

We inserted last week the call of the County Committee to the Union voters of Beaver County, fixing the time of holding the County Convention. The time fixed is earlier than we anticipated, but so far as we are concerned, one time is as good as another. Last year the Convention was a month later. When we take into account, however, the number of candidates in the field, and their known anxiety for an early Convention, we do not wonder the Committee was induced to shorten the time, both out of respect to the candidates and the people. We did not start out, however, to discuss the time fixed, but to call attention to one important feature of the call. Last year the County Convention, by a vote of fifty-four to twenty-seven, adopted a resolution submitted to the people in the call for that Convention, declaring that hereafter the voting for candidates in the different election districts should be by ballot. In obedience to that resolution, the Chairman of the Committee in his call directs that the provisions of the resolution referred to shall be adhered to. We believe the change a good one, and since the people made it, we think no departure from the rule adopted should be permitted. If there are objections now, it is too late. Their only course left is to submit the matter again to the people, and let them make the change if they desire one. Candidates and others had better take notice that a departure from the rule will give trouble. We are only stating this matter clearly, that all may fairly understand. Personally, it matters little to us what mode districts may adopt, but we know full well there are those who will not be satisfied so easily. In this county, where a nomination is equivalent to an election, voting by ballot is the proper method the people have thought, and now we must abide by the decision. To prevent any misunderstanding, we might say that any candidate having no opposition, should not be required to distribute tickets, or be nominated by ballot. In that case, no ballot would be required. The vote should be by acclamation. We say this much to relieve such candidates and their friends from unnecessary trouble

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 5.

A committee of conference having agreed on the amendatory habeas corpus act, it has passed both Houses, and only awaits the signature of the President to become a law. It protects every officer of the Federal Government, who acting under orders, during the war. It also removes all suits brought by aggrieved parties against such officer, from the State courts to the Federal courts. As has been before stated, it transfers over two thousand of that kind of cases from the Kentcky local courts to the United States courts. The bill provides that the production of a telegram order by an officer for such an arrest is sufficient for his defense in in the suit.

The Senate in Executive session to-day, finally confirmed Lewis D. Campbell, as Minister to Mexico. It was claimed that he was a strong supporter of the President's policy, but Senator Wade made a speech in Mr. Campbell's favor, and that settled the question.

WASHINGTON, May 7, 1866.

The House passed, without any debate to-day, a bill perfected by the Judiciary Committee, which, in effect paves the way somewhat for the trial of Jefferson Davis. It provides for the time and place for holding the circuit court for the Eastern district of Virginia, and allows the judge to hold the court at Norfolk or Richmond. The bill was received by the Senate and duly referred.

There seems to be a very strong impression to-day that the President has decided to veto the bill admitting Colorado into the Union. Its friends in the House at least are very confident of an impending veto.

General Sickles to-day notified both the President and Secretary of War that he did not desire the mission to the Hague, and should decline it.—He preferred to remain in the military service, and retain his present command at Charleston, South Carolina.

There is considerable stir in New York over State politics at this time. Gov. Fenton and Lieut. Gov. Atwood are about the only strong candidates mentioned among the Union men for the position these two public men now occupy, and State Senator Henry C. Murphy, of Brooklyn, is very likely to be the Democratic candidate against Mr. Fenton.

Bangor, Me., May 4.—Wm. Hutching, the last surviving revolutionary soldier in this State, and the last but two or three in the Union, died on Thursday, in the town of Penobscot, Hancock county, at the age of 102 years. Special honors will be accorded to the memory of the deceased veteran, at his funeral on Monday next.

James Parton, the book-writer, says of James Gordon Bennett, of the New York Herald: "He had no friends at the start, he has had none since, and he has none now The whole of his power as a writer consists in his detection of the evil in things that are good and the falsehood in things that are true, and of the ridiculous in things that are important."

Clymer on Arming the State.

In the Senate, on the 12th of April, 1861, on motion of Mr. M'Clure, the second reading and consideration of the bill providing for arming the State was entered upon.

It so happened that just before the assembling of the Senate that evening, intelligence had been received by telegraph that the forces of the Government were engaged in actual conflict with the insurgents at Charleston. All the members were in possession of the news, and each acted under it as his principles and feelings dictated.

Upon the passage of each section of the bill the yeas and nays were required. Each division produced a strictly party result. Every Republican voted to put the State in a condition of defense. Every Democrat voted the other way. On every division Mr. Clymer voted on the rebel side His principles, his sympathies, and his ambition, all took him that way.

On the final passage the vote stood: Yeas—Messrs. Benson, Boughter, Bound, Connell, Finney, Fuller, Grogg, Hall, Hamilton, Hiestand, Imbrie, Irish, Ketchum, Landon, Lawrence, M'Clure, Meredith, Nichols, Parker, Penney, Robinson, Serrill, Smith, Thompson, Wharton, Yardley and Palmer, Speaker—27.

Nays—Messrs. Blood, Clymer, Crawford, Mott, Schindel and Welsh —6.

This record, which Mr. Clymer made at the commencement of the war, he maintained, with a most disloyal and infamous consistency, till the close.

East Tennessee.

Cincinnati, May 4.—The Convention called to consider the propriety of organizing a separate State Government for east Tennessee, met at Knoxville yesterday. Judge Samuel Rogers presided. Judge Rogers said he hoped the members would act deliberately and with caution. This was but an adjourned meeting of the Convention held at Greenville during the dark hours of the rebellion. We propose to consider the movement.—If we secede, it will be from the rebel people. East Tennessee has long desired a separate State Government, and the new State can be made one of the richest in the Union.

At the conclusion of the President's remarks, Colonel Temple from the Committee on resolutions and business reported an address unanimously adopted, stating the scheme had long been cherished by East Tennessee.—The people of the State differ in soil, habit and custom. The difference between the people are irradicable.—West of the mountain the people are all rebels; East, they are all Unionists. To protect ourselves, we must disenfranchise them. We will not be dragged into false positions as to the Union, by the other Southern States. We believe a separate government best, that we may live in peace and develop our resources.—The address concludes with statistics as to the population, number of square miles, mineral resources, &c.

Other resolutions opposing the address of the Committee, and advising a postponement of the question until Congress decided whether Tennessee is a State. His resolutions were almost unanimously voted down.

After an eloquent address by Colonel Nelson, supporting the movement, the President of the Convention was instructed to appoint a Committee of three to bring the question before the Legislature.

A Committee was also appointed to prepare an address to the people in East Tennessee.

Another Homicide in Fayette City.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburg Commercial.

Fayette City, May 5, 1866.

Mr. Martin Lutz, a farmer living in the suburbs of this place, was accidentally shot last evening, about eleven o'clock, under the following circumstances Mr. Lutz had left home in the morning, with the intention of being away until the next day. A A young man by the name of Todd, and Mrs. Lutz, in the evening locked the house and went to spend the evening with a neighbor. On their return they found the door broken open, and heard some one up stairs. They called frequently for Mr. Lutz, but received no answer. They then went for assistance and procured weapons, while one of the party went for an officer. Lutz fired out of the window up stairs. The other party then entered the house, and as Lutz came down stairs Todd called upon him to speak or he would shoot, which he refused to do. Todd then fired. Lutz ran several rods, and Todd was about to fire again, when he (Lutz) spoke and said: "My God, Sam, you have killed me, but it was my own fault," and in a few moments died. Mr. Lutz was a worthy citizen. No blame is attached to Mr. Todd.

Cleveland and Mahoning R R.

Mr. Garfield, of Ohio, introduced a bill in the House of Representatives of the United States, last week, authorizing the Cleveland and Mahoning Railroad Company to construct a road from Pittsburg to Cleveland, and to declare the same a postal and military route. It alludes to the charter granted said road by the State of Ohio, but enlarges its corporate powers.—The bill was referred to the special Railroad Committee.

Deaths from Starvation at the South.—Letters from influential persons in Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina speak of sad cases of suffering in those States, where deaths from actual starvation are reported to have recently occurred. The distress is not confined to the freedmen, but in hundreds of cases the white residents are equal sufferers, not even a loaf of bread being obtainable.

The Deering Murder.

Probst Alone Guilty—He Confesses the Deed—A Bloody Recital.

Philadelphia May 7.—The Evening Telegraph publishes the confession of Probst. After describing the murder of the boy, Carey, he says: The sight of the blood of the boy produced in me a devilish and bloodthirsty feeling, and I determined at once to murder the whole family.—He disposed of the body of the boy as described before, and then deliberately walked over to the house. He entered and told Charlie, the little boy next in years to Willie, who was absent, that he wanted him to help him do some work in the barn. The little boy followed, and as soon as he got him inside the barn door he despatched him with a small axe he had secured. He then went back to the house and told Mrs. Deering there was something the matter with one of the cows, and he wanted her to come to the barn. She went, and he followed, and as soon as she entered inside he struck her on the head and killed her. He then went back to the house and brought the children out, one at a time, and taking them inside the barn, despatched them one by one, with the same axe. In each instance he cut their throats and placed their bodies in the corn crib himself just in the position they were found. He then covered the bodies up and proceeded to wipe out all evidence of his guilt. He then went back to the house and awaited the arrival of Mr. Deering, not expecting that Miss Dolan would accompany him. As soon as Mr. Deering arrived in the carriage he got out, and Probst told him something was wrong with one of the cows, and asked him to go over to the barn with him Mr. Deering went along with him, and Miss Dolan went into the house and took off her bonnet and furs. Mr. Deering did not even take off his gloves before going to the barn, but proceeded there at once, followed by Probst, who had axe concealed, ready for use. As soon as Mr. Deering entered the door, Probst states that he struck him on the head and felled him to the earth, and then chopped at his neck with the edge of the axe.

Miss Dolan was the next and last last victim. She proceeded to the barn after coming down stairs, and not finding any of the family in the house, and Probst, who was in waiting for her, treated her as he had done the rest of the family. After laying out the bodies and covering them up with hay, the murderer went into the house and commenced searching for valuables. He states that he got no money, but expected to secure a considerable amount. He states that Miss Dolan's pocketbook had very little in it. He saw nothing whatever of the two fifty dollar compound interest notes, and twenty dollar bill of the same character that are missing. He remained about the house for some time, picked up the articles found in the black valise and left about dark.—His further movements were pretty much as brought out on trial. Probst to all the murders before, but he feared that if he did so, he would be torn to pieces by the mob.

Last Days of Gen. Cass.—The editor of the La Crosse Democrat, in a letter written on the 13th, makes the following mention of the departing Statesman, Gen. Lewis Cass: He is still alive, though his family have gathered here in daily expectation of his decease. The General is now in his 87th year. He passes most of his time in sleep, undisturbed At rare intervals he wakens up sufficiently to ask for some of his old friends, who are sent for, but on arriving, within the hour, he is generally asleep again. His disease is softening of the brain.

In the House of Representives on the passage of the bill creating the new grade of General, Thaddeus Stevens followed Mr. Raymond, and said: "Sir, I agree with the gentleman from New York in being willing to promote Gen. Grant, not only to the office of full General, but also, as I understand, and hope I did not misunderstand him, 'to a higher office whenever the happy moment shall arrive.'" This significant sentence caused quite a sensation on the floor and in the galleries. Mr. Raymond made no disclaimer.

Equalizing the Currency.—A sub committee has been appointed for the purpose of framing a bill looking to a more equal distribution of the National currency among the States. There has recently been an attempt to stave off this result by getting a further increase of $100,000,000, but it was unsuccessful. The currency now out will, therefore, have to suffice, and the banks which took possession of the lion's share may as well prepare to disgorge

Bounty Jumpers.—A report lately made to the War Department shows that the crime of "bounty jumping" was extensively committed near the close of the late war. Of 500,000 men enlisted by the Government during the last year of the war, but 168,000 reached the army. The frauds committed were universal and not confined to any particular locality.

Mrs. Jeff. Davis, accompanied by two servants and her youngest child, arrived at Fortress Monroe on the 3d. She was escorted by Lieutenant Fesenden into the Fortress. The conditions of her visit are unknown.—She brought a large quantity baggage with her, as if evidently designing to remain some length of time.

Editors Argus: I have heard with pleasure that our esteemed and worthy friend, Lieut. L. D. Johnston, of the Borough of Beaver, has consented to be a candidate for the office of Register and Recorder of this county.

To many of the older citizens of the county it will not be necessary to say much in relation to the merits and standing of the family of which Mr. Johnston is a member, but to those who are younger, and to many who have not resided here, it would be proper and necessary, briefly, to state the grounds upon which the friends of Lieut. Johnston rest his claims to public favor.

During the Revolutionary war for our Independence, David Johnston, (the grandfather of Lieut. Johnston) who was long known in Western Pennsylvania, was a member of what was known as the "Flying Camp," a cavalry organization, which rendered the most valuable service to the army under Gen. Washington, and which, by its patriotic devotion to the cause of Liberty, its daring and heroic feats, won for itself imperishable glory. He served his country faithfully and gallantly, and after our final separation from Great Brittain, settled down in the peaceful pursuits of civil life, and by learning, and extraordinary capacity as an instructor of youth, and by his exemplary conduct as a christian and a citizen, won the respect and esteem of all men.

During the late war with Great Brittain two uncles of Lieut. Johnston, (John and James Johnston) young men of great promise, joined the army of their country to uphold its honor and its rights, and nobly sacrificed their lives in the discharge of their duty, under the immortal Gen. Brady; and when the war for the life of the Republic, which had been founded by such patriots as the progenitors of Lieut. Johnston, he with a younger brother (Marshall Johnston) promptly and patriotically joined with the hosts of Freedom to crush out Treason and Rebellion. Lieut. Johnston fought under our lamented friend, Col. J. H. Wilson, of the 101st P. V. at the battle of Williamsburg, and by the hardships he endured in an unhealthy country, his physical powers gave way, and he was compelled, reluctantly, to leave the service for a short time, having received an honorable discharge.

But again, when his native State was invaded, although not recovered, he felt it his duty, in obedience to the constituted authorities of the State, to give all the strength he had, and, if needed, his life to drive back the hordes of savage traitors. He thus served two terms, and gained the entire confidence and respect of his brave companions.

His brother Marshall was at the battle of Gettysburg, under the late gallant Col. Roberts, and whilst faithfully doing his duty as a soldier of the Union, was wounded, taken prisoner and confined in the prison at Belle Island, where he endured all the horrors of that infamous place, until exhausted and worn out with starvation and brutal cruelty, he yielded up his life for his country.

Thus we have given as briefly as possible a history of the military services of Lieut. Johnston and of his relatives, to show the claims he has upon a patriotic people, who can fully appreciate them; but we do not rest his claims alone upon his military career, or of those connected with him.

All who have the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with him respect him for his many manly virtues, for his irreproachable conduct, and for his strict integrity; besides, he possesses in a high degree the necessary qualifications for the office named, as an active, attentive and courteous business man.

We feel confident that a generous and intelligent people will not overlook the claims we have presented. A Soldier's Friend.

New Brighton, April 21, 1866.

Eds. Argus: While the friends of the different candidates are presenting their claims to public favor, we desire to present the claims of our fellow-townsman, Thos. G Kerr, Esq., for Associate Judge. Mr. Kerr has been a resident of the county nearly all his life (56 years), is well qualified in every particular, having been a Justice of the Peace for nearly twenty-five years, being commissioned first by Gov. Porter. He is a man of irreproachable character, and would fill the office with credit to the county and honor to himself. In addition to the above, Freedom borough has done much for the party, and has never had but one office in the gift of the county since its organization. In view of the above facts we would respectfully urge his claims, subject to the decision of the Convention.

THE BEAVER ARGUS

MAY 9th, 1866.

LOCAL and MISCELLANEOUS.

☞ Wm. Bingham, Jr., 54 Fifth st., Pittsburg, is the authorized agent for the Argus in that city.

☞ See Gealy's advertisement in another column.

☞ We call attention to the sale of the Real Estate of Wm. Obney dec'd., advertised by the Agent, Dr. Thomson, which will be found in another column.

☞ A correspondent in the Pittsburg Commercial brings forward the name of Benjamin Rush Bradford, Esq., of New Brighton, as a candidate for the State Senate in the Beaver and Washington District.

☞ We were in error last week in stating that young McKean, who was shot at Little Beaver, was dead. McKean is still living and will in all probability recover.

Change of Venue.—A change of venue has been granted in the case of John Lennox, charged with the murder of Robert L. Morrow, in Washington county. The case will be tried in this county, at the June term of Court.

☞ The Allegheny county Fair will be held on the 19th, 20th, 21st and 22d of September.

Laughing Gas.—Why do you go to Pittsburg to get your teeth extracted by this agent, when you can get it done by Dr. J. Murray, of Bridgewater? See advertisement in this week's paper.

☞ Col. Coulter, of Westmoreland county, has been announced in the columns of the Hollidaysburg Register, as Senator Cowan's candidate for gubernatorial honors at the ensuing election.

☞ We are under renewed obligations to Hon. Edgar Cowan, of the Senate, and Hon. Geo. V. Lawrence, of the House, for favors received. Also to W. C. Dualap, of the Steamer "Anna," and James W. Edgar, of the Steamer "Kenton," for late Memphis and St. Louis papers.

☞ Some paper having made the statement that butter should not be kept in the room with petroleum, as kerosene would spoil the butter—giving it a peculiar flavor—a cotemporary very justly remarks that some of the butter now-a-days is enough to spoil petroleum.

Recent Strikes.—The Grand Turk Oil Company struck a fine well recently at Island Run. The West Virginia, which was considered a failure some weeks ago, commenced flowing last week, and is now considered a first class well. The Maple Grove and Conquest have also struck since our last report.

Relief to Farmers.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, in the assessment of the annual income, will not require of farmers the return of the value of their farm products consumed by themselves and families. The instructions to assessors, now being prepared, will expressly authorize this relief.

☞ If you want cheap Bonnets and Hats, go to Gealy's.

☞ Rich'd. H. Agnew, Esq., the efficient Clerk to the Commissioners, resigned his place last week, on account of ill health, and John Caughey, Esq., late Country Treasurer, was selected to fill his place. Mr. Caughey accepted the app ointment, and entered upon the discharge of his duties.

☞ Chamberlin & Winans, of New Brighton, dealers in Hardware, &c., have added to their stock Paints, Oils, Putty, &c., and are now prepared to accommodate buyers with the best articles in that line. We hear these gentlemen spoken of everywhere as enterprising business men, and all agree that they are the most accommodating and pleasant of gentlemen to do business with. Reader, take our advice for once, and before you buy elsewhere give them a call.

The Fayette County Homicide.—Thairwell, the principal in the Housman murder, has confessed that he shot the deceased thro' the head, while he lay asleep in his bed, and that Mrs. Housman was present with a tub in which to catch his blood! Mrs. Housman, in her "confession," alleged that Housman first shot at Thairwell, and that the killing was in self-defense. Thairwell's statement is probably true. He alleges that Mrs. Housman persistently urged him to commit the act until he consented to do so.

Election of School Superintendents.—The School Directors of Beaver county met at the Court House on Tuesday of last week, and re-elected J. I. Reed County Superintendent for the ensuing three years. Mr. Fields, of New Brighton, was his competitor. The salary was fixed at $800 a year.

G. W. M'Cracken was elected Superintendent of schools in Lawrence county, and the salary fixed at $800—a reduction of $200.

The School Directors of Allegheny county elected Mr. Douthitt Superintendent, and raised the salary from $1500 to $2000 a year.

Prof. J. Miller was elected Superintendent Mercer county. Salary, $1200 a year.

☞ Go to Gealy's for the cheapest Congress Gaiters.

☞ Prof. Mowry, one of the most esteemed piano teachers of Pittsburg, and who is well known in our own community, has just written the following highly complimentary letter:—

Mr. Mellor—Dear Sir:—Many years since I decided, after a long experience with numerous makes of Pianos, that those of Chickering and Son's manufacture were the best in every particular. Since then the more I have become more acquainted with them, the more I have become convinced to their superiority. I have invariably found them to possess the purest tone, the most perfect scale, the most elastic action; to be the most durable, and to give the best satisfaction of any make. For my own use I would have none but a Chickering Piano, and can recommend them with perfect confidence to my pupils and friends.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN C. MOWRY.

Eds. Argus: "Observator" neglects to say in regard to the exhibition at Freedom, that it was repeated on Friday night to a much larger audience, the gross receipts being $132 00. As I have a programme before me, I will give you the performances and the performers, omitting those "Observator" has named. Duett—Misses Thompson and McDonald. "Salutatory," by Miss Furnier, (original) was a fine production, and reflected credit on the authoress. "The first Quarrel" was well rendered by Mr. Porter and Miss M'Connell. In the "Tableau of Hager," Miss Murphy as Hager, Mr. M'Kee as Abraham, and Miss Graham as Sarah, was represented with fine effect. "Three eras in a man's life" was put on the stage in good style; Mr. Snead performs well, whether as a groom, a gambler, or a maniac.—"Colloquy of the nations" was a rich scene. Miss M'Caskey as Israel, Miss Pritchard as Russia, Miss M'Kee as Greece, Miss Grim as Italy, Miss Cole as Germany, Miss Lourimore as Switzerland, Miss M'Connell as England, Miss Furnier as France, Miss Grim as Ethiopia, Miss Murphy as the veiled Prophetess, and Miss Kerr as the "Goddess of Liberty." The "three sable gentlemen," by Messrs. T. J. Kerr, F. R M'Caskey and R. H. Kerr, "brought down the house." Burlesque on Tom Thumb, by Messrs Porter and M'Caskey, convulsed the audience with laughter.

"The source of prosperity" was the grand tableau of the evening, and was rendered in magnificent style and was pronounced by all as a complete success. Miss Graham representing Religion, Miss Cole as Commerce, Miss Thompson as Agriculture, and the little girls, Edie and Alie Kerr, with Lizzie Ayres as Angels; Thalia M'Caskey painting Annie Snead with a work-basket; Cora Kerr arranging a boquet of flowers; Dora Brown reading from a book. "The soldier's return" produced quite a feeling, and was warmly applauded Mr. M'Kee and Miss Murphy performed their parts to the entire satisfaction of the audience.

In the "Contest between right and wrong," Mr. Neal as a rebel, Mr. T. J. Kerr as a Federal officer, Miss McDonald as the Goddess of Liberty, was a thrilling scene. "Now, Moses," by Miss Kerr and Mr. Porter, was a perfect success, and elicited shouts of applause. Mr. Porter makes an excellent "Moses." "Polly Perkins" was sung in fine style by Mr. Porter, and was appreciated. The Valedictory, by Miss M'Connel, (original) was an excellent piece of composition, and exhibited much thought. "Our Father which art in Heaven," by little Thale, was solemn and sublime.

Great praise is due Mr. Geo. M'Caskey for his labor in perfecting the arrangements and carrying forward the programme. In conclusion, all did better than was expected, and the exhibition was a complete success in every particular. X. Y. Z.

Atlantic Monthly.—The May No of this excellent magazine is on our table. The contents are: "The Harmonists," by the author of "Life in the Iron-Mills," is a sketch of the village of Economy, in this county; Miss Field's recollections of "The last days of Walter Savage Landor;" "Abraham Davenport," a poem by Whittier; "To-morrow," a sonnet by Longfellow; "Dr. Johns;" "Passages from Hawthorne's Note Book;" "The Fenian Idea," "Chimney Corner" paper, by Mrs. Stowe; "Edwin Booth;" "Among the Laurels," a poem by Mrs. Akers, continuation of "Griffith Gaunt;" "Mr. Hosea Biglow's Speech in March Meeting," is the title of a pungent Biglow Paper, by James Russell Lowell; "Questions of Monuments," is a short paper, by W. D. Howells, discussing the means of commemorating the men and events of the war. The usual Reviews and Literary Notices follow. Address Ticknor & Fields, Boston.

☞ Hon. J. N. M'Cullough, President of the C. & P. RR, at the request of our citizens has kindly ordered the 4.00 western express train to stop at the Beaver station. This is now one of the most important stations on the road, and we think all trains should stop. Our citizens are more interested in the express train going east at 8.00, p. m.; and if Mr. M'Cullough could be induced to make the same order as to that train, he will do a great favor to our people. We owe M'Cullough many thanks for his continued kindness to us, and all residing along the line of his road. As one favor deserves another, we hope he will grant the second request.

We may be allowed in this connection to say that the officers, conductors, &c., of the C. & P. RR are the most accommodating and obliging men connected with any road. It is a pleasure to do business with them, and we are therefore emboldened to ask those favors that benefit the people as well as the road.

☞ Gen. John S. Littell, of this county, has been appointed on the Committee of Arrangements having in charge the ceremonies of the reception of the flags of Pennsylvania Regiments, in Independence Square, Philadelphia, July 4th. The Legislature in 1861 provided that the Governor should procure and present to each Pennsylvania Regiment as standards upon which should be inscribed the number of the Regiments and the painted arms of the Commonwealth, and that all the standards after the rebellion was ended should be returned to the Governor, that they might be preserved by the State. The Fourth of July has been set apart for the formal returning of these standards. The selection of Independence Square, Philadelphia, was most fitting and appropriate. To soldiers, their friends and the loyal people of the Commonwealth the occasion will be one of great interest.

The Soldiers' Convention.—The Soldiers and Sailors of Pennsylvania are requested to meet in convention in Pittsburg, on the 5th of June next, as will be seen by the following address just issued by Major General Hartranft:

Harrisburg, May 1, 1866.

To the Soldiers of Pennsylvania: In obedience to the authority invested in me by a resolution adopted by the Convention of Soldiers, held in this city on the 8th day of March, 1866, I do hereby request all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of Pennsylvania to meet in their respective legislative districts, and select delegates—not exceeding five in number—to represent their district in a Soldiers' Convention to be held at Pittsburg on Tuesday, the 5th of June, at ten o'clock, A. M. Where any representative district comprises more than one county, the manner of selecting delegates is respectfully referred to the soldiers of the district for such conference as will result in a fair representation of each county. Citizens who have born arms in defense of the nation against treason, have an especial interest in the purposes of this convention, and it is desirable that as full a represention of the brave defenders of the country as is possible should be secured on this occasion.

John F. Hartranft,
Late Brevet Maj. Gen. U. S. Vols.

☞ The Lawrence Journal says that the oil fever in that county is on the increase, owing to recent developments on the Slipperyrock, and on the Mahoning. A good well was struck on Thursday of last week, by the Lawrence Oil and Mining Company, on the Robinson farm, on the Mahoning river about two miles above Edenburg. We have not been at the well; but, we are informed that it is only one hundred and fifty-nine feet deep. At one hundred and fifty-three feet a crevice about eighteen inches in depth was struck, and pumping was commenced. After about eighteen hours pumping, oil came forth, and up to this time is producing one barrel per hour, or at the rate of twenty-five barrels per day and night, and increasing. The quality of the oil is fine lubricating and has hitherto sold at $20 to $30 per barrel so far as produced.

Important to Housekeepers.

The steady reduction of the premium on gold has sensibly affected every branch of business. The cost of merchandise in general, is growing less to the consumer every day. Stiles & Shallenberger announce to the public, what their customers have already discovered, a heavy reduction in the price of Groceries.

They give no quotations, as prices are almost daily changing, and with a downward tendency. This much, however, they will say: With a full knowledge of the Grocery business, they buy the best quality of goods to be found in the best markets, at the lowest cash rates, and have resolved to sell them at an unusually small profit.

Goods for distant points, are carefully packed, plainly marked, and delivered free of charge, at either of the railroad stations, or on board the trains, when freight is prepaid.

CHICKERING & SONS.

PIANO FORTES.

THE instruments now manufactured by this well known, long established firm, are the results of nearly half a century of study, experiment and improvements.

Possessing greater advantages than all other makers through this long period of increasing experience, two generations of active, energetic mind have been assiduously employed in perfecting their productions.

THE CHICKERING PIANOS

Are now at the head of all the instruments manufactured in this country. For purity and sonority of tone, elegance of finish, thoroughness and durability of structure, they rank foremost of all.

With the merely mechanical excellence which results largely from the ingenious inventions of Messrs. Chickering themselves they combine a beauty, delicacy, and poetry of tone which is a rare charm, and seems to depend as much on the intelligence as on the handiwork of the maker.

Among the leading artists who have visited this country and well-known Pianists of Bostos and New York who use the "Chickering Piano" in preference to those of other makers in the country, may be mentioned,

Thalberg,	Gottschalk,	Wehli,
De Meyer,	Jaell,	Muzio,
Sanderson,	Hoffman,	Pychowski,
Dresel,	Leonhard,	Rakeman;
Scarfenberg,	Lang,	Benedict,
Bassini,	Warren,	Strakosch,
Parker,	Bristow,	Gilder.

Chickering produce.

Every instrument warranted for 5 years, by the manufacturer and the subscribers. Persons at a distance desiring further information should address the subscribers, who will be happy to send them (post paid,) drawings of the various styles of Pianos, prices, &c.—Old Pianos taken in exchange.

DR. CLOCK'S

EXCELSIOR HAIR RESTORER IS THE best ever offered to the public and the only one possessing all the merits claimed for it. It restores grey hair to its original color, makes hair grow on bald heads when falling off from disease; removes Scruff, Dandruff, etc.; arrests its falling off or turning gray; cures sick headache and all diseases of the scalp; causes harsh, wiry hair to become soft, pliable and luxuriantly glossy. It is elegantly perfumed, and all that can be desired for a dressing. It contains no sugar of lead or other mineral so injurious to the head and hair, and of which most preparations now in use are composed, but is a purely vegetable compound. WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD to produce an instance where the Restorer has failed when used according to directions. Among the thousands who have used it we have yet to learn of one who is not perfectly satisfied with its resuls. Hair white as snow is with marvelous rapidity restored to all its pristine beauty by its use. It is not a dye, but by supplying the secretions of the capillary glands acts as a restorer. Mothers, whose children's hair is harsh, wiry, or thin and scant, will find by using the Restorer it will immediately improve and may be dressed in any desired form, thus laying the foundation for a good head of hair, so desirable in after life. The proprietor is aware of the many who have been disappointed by the high sounding pretense of the numerous preparations with which the market has been filled for a few years past, but such entire confidence does he place in the merits of his Restorer that he offers, in all cases, to refund the money if, after a thorough trial of two bottles, it fails to give perfect satisfaction. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its merits. Put up in large bottles and sold by all druggists at $1 pr bottle.
